Canonical pioneers across the twentieth century are exhibited in Art Basel's Feature sector. Galerie Kaléidoscope unveils Eduardo Arroyo's "La femme du mineur Pérez Martinez, Constantina (dite Tina) tondu par la police," a composition on redefining femininity within historical contexts. Kotaro

Nukaga presents the solo exhibition of Saori Akutagawa, one of the few female avant garde painters in postwar Japan. A trailblazer through the medium of dyeing, the breadth of her work extends from themes on women to folk tales and mythology.

For one week, June 18-21, the international art world is aligned, and galleries, installations and interactive events are on full display. At the intersection of creation and community, Art Basel remains a melting pot of expression. This year, we're reminded of what we already know; there really is Only One Basel.
